SUMMARY

With my six years of design experience, I decided to direct my career to software development. I am currently studying full-stack development, focusing on improving my skills in both front-end and back-end technologies. My ultimate goal is to become a professional in the field of artificial intelligence, leveraging my design background to create intuitive and innovative artificial intelligence solutions. I want to work with forward thinking companies that can support my growth and development in these areas and provide a collaborative environment where I can contribute and develop.

My website, which I designed and developed myself: www.elfanya.com
